Dottie

IN A WORLD FULL OF SQUARES, BE A POLKA DOT!

Dottie is back with a simple reminder....
In a world full of squares, be a polka dot!

What begins as simple dots builds into a lively, graphic pattern that adds movement and energy to any project. Small, bold, and just a little bit rebellious, because blending in was never really the plan.

SUGAR

Sugar is a print originally called Sprinkle, inspired by the way sugar scatters across the table when you're baking: a little messy, a little magical. It's one of those prints that's stayed with me, finding its way into the background of so many prints over the years.

SPRING 2015

Add It Up was first released over 12 years ago with my Paper Bandana fabric collection. I wanted to create a basic that felt a little like a polka dot and a little like a woven texture. I remember getting the first samples back in 2014 and now Add It Up has been in almost every quilt I've made since that first release!

spark
BY MELODY MILLER

Spark was released alongside my very first RSS collection, Social, in 2019. For several years, every time I made a new collection, I would add a few colors of Spark to support it. It's been a long time since I've done a new Spark print, so it I felt really excited to bring it back for Sidekicks!

hole●punch dot

KIMBERLY KIGHT

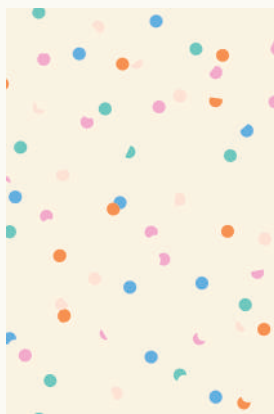

• 2020 •

Hole Punch Dot was first introduced with my collection Tarrytown.

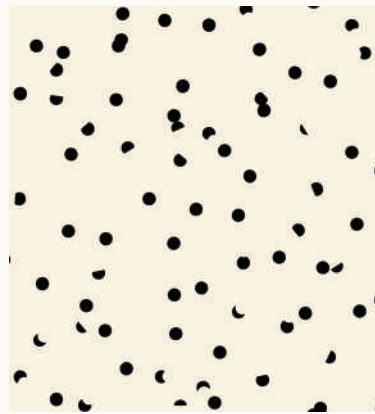

It was a collection about slowing down and enjoying simple pleasures. It was inspired by the confetti that falls out of a three-hole punch!
